Royal Insurance Company.

FIRE AND LIFE.

CAPITAL TWO MILLIONS STERLING.

This important company, in many respects the greatest of its kind in the present age, has appointed an agency in this city. The head-offices are in London and Liverpool with branches in Dublin, Edinburgh, Glasgow, Manchester, Bristol, Birmingham, Sheffield, Leeds, Newcastle, Southampton, Montreal, Toronto and other cities.

The ROYAL is remarkable; for the promptitude and liberality of its settlements: for the largest life bonuses (£2 per cent per annum) ever continuously declared during 15 years by any Co.; for the enormous extent of its transactions, shewing £100,000 in new life assurances for 1862, and a Fire revenue of £300,000 per annum; for its security, which has given rise to the proverb "as safe as the Royal;" for the accumulated funds in hand, over one million sterling; for its annual income, over half-a-million sterling; and for the correct calculation of its mortality tables. Hence the English press of all countries, including over 80 leading papers, speaks in the highest terms of this company.

The report for 1862 shews that all the property of the Co. amounting to £846,070 is real and substantial property: " the amount now exceeds one million sterling. The increase, during 14 years, on Fire business was 900 per cent, and on Life 1350 per cent.

MESSRS. H. A. GREEN AND Co. are authorised to issue policies for Fire and Life to a very large amount, at moderate premiums, the Co. being anxious to extend its foreign business, which already shews an annual revenue of £200,000. Life claims can be settled without reference to England. For further particulars please apply to

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The friends of Flores and the revolutionary party in Buenos Ayres were astounded yesterday by a rumour that the Brazilian admiral had received instructions per Mersey, to raise the blockade. We cannot say whether this rumour is correct or not, but from the tone of one of our leading morning colleagues we rather think it is well founded.

Commander Herrero of the steamer Paraguari, contradicts the statement published in the 'Nacional' respecting the salute fired at the fortress of Humaita on the arrival of the Marques de Olinda with the Governor of Matto Grosso on board.

The Pavon arrived yesterday bringing us files from the interior. There are no mails, however, from San Juan. Our colleagues in Rosario have taken up the gold question and assert that the letters received from the diggings leave no doubt as to the existence of gold, but they counsel prudence as it appears that in Rosario as in Buenos Ayres many are already preparing to start, and our colleague suggests that it would be wiser to wait for a few days until further details are received. For the information of those who take an interest in this matter, we beg to say that we have written to Mr. Gibson who was formerly in our office, but is at present residing in San Juan, to send us by return a full and true account of the matter, for the benefit of the English reading community both here and elsewhere.

The state of things in Rosario is from bad to worse, and only goes to prove the truth of our remark respecting the injurious effect of too many papers in a town. We all recollect what occurred in San Nicotas, and now in Rosario some of the papers teem with the most scandalous personalities and abuse. In fact if the Government does not think proper to interfere, the result will be either an election riot or a provincial revolution.

Dr. Rawson, the National Prime Minister, returned yesterday: we welcome him back, for, candidly speaking, we cannot spare our go-ahead Minister, and though some might say never mind, if even his Excellency was caught by Indians and carried off to the Gran Chaco, we feel bound to say that in the Argentine Republic we could hardly find another man to fill his place with such general success and satisfaction.

The duel between Mr. Varela and Mr. L. Torres was unattended with loss of life. Mr. Torres got hit in the region of the hip; Mr. Varela did not even get a scratch, so we suppose the seconds shouted HIP-hurrah.

Owing to the very sultry weather at present, hundreds of dusty citizens are to be seen every night bathing at the mole. One Englishman astonished the natives by jumping from the top of the Muelle into the river. As the water was deep our friend seemed to enjoy the plunge.

"Erin" has sent us another letter from Cordova: it is very descriptive, tinged with a little of the blarney. To-morrow we will publish it.

One of our colleagues states that the Paraguayan steamer left Montevideo a day before her time, in order to escape an ovation, as the Orientals proposed to form a procession and chair all the Paraguayan officers round the city. We think the whole affair is an invention of our colleagues as our wide-awake correspondent says nothing whatever about it.

The English packet, we understand, is about to change her days and hours of sailing. As yet we have not been favored with the particulars, but believe she will hence-forward leave Buenos Ayres a day later and stop in Montevideo less time.

The Memnon took home two thousand pounds sterling in gold, and the supplemental mail for the Saintonge took heavy remittances in bills of exchange.

There is a story current about a certain petition which was drawn up and signed by various British residents in the Banda Oriental intended to solicit of Mr. Lettson an active intervention in the Oriental Question, but it appears the language of the petition, though flowery, was obscure, and when it was presented to Mr. L., he read it, received it, and put it into his pocket. The Committee who waited on the Consul, however, asked for a reply to the prayer, whereupon Mr. L. politely said that he really did not know what answer to give, as he, for the life of him, could not make out what was the prayer of the petition. One of the signers of the petition is our informant, and he is one of the leading English residents of the Oriental capital.

We perceive that in the town of Dolores, a weekly Spanish paper is about to be started. We wish our rural colleague success.

The new police force to guard the public prison in San Nicolas, has been sent to that city by the provincial Government. We suppose we shall hear of no more escapes henceforward.

To-day takes place the important auction of a house in Calle Moreno, (485 & 487), by Mr. Balcarce: the furniture is handsome, but the principal interest is the fine house and store which will probably be sold cheap, and are suitable for any business.

Mr. Drummond, second Secretary of Legation, has left for Montevideo for the benefit of his health.

An amusing case turned up in the Custom-House last week. Monsieur Chevalier (namesake of the economist) was clearing some goods, when Señor Bilbao took the idea that he might be some way connected with the late Civallieri. In vain the former remonstrated that he was a Frenchman and nothing to the defunct Italian bankrupt. He was obliged to bring two witnesses proving his non-identity.

The last great prize in the lottery was drawn by a person who purchased the ticket two hours after the number was announced. The seller was a little boy just come from Barracas.

Mails from Chile arrived yesterday, but there is no news. Mr. Monti was received at Lima as Chilian Minister. The United States Government declares it will not allow Spanish troops to cross the isthmus of Panamá. The revolution in Ecuador gains ground.

The Republic of Guatemala has begged to be annexed to the Mexican Empire, and all Central American will follow the sage example.

The 'Porvenir' of Gualeguaychú announces that General Urquiza has received official notice of 10,000 Paraguayan troops having crossed the Argentine frontier. It requires confirmation.

The Northern Railway commenced last Tuesday running an evening train on week-days, from Plaza Maye at 6 o'clock, and from San Fernando at 5:55.

NEWS FROM THE PROVINCES.

ROSARIO.

The Pavon arrived yesterday with the Rosario papers to Tuesday 15th inst. The town was in alarm about the Indian invasions, the savages having carried their audacity so far as to murder several peons and take away large herds of cattle from the adjacent districts. The citizens presented themselves to the chief of Police, offering to form a volunteer corps to repel the marauders, but the chief informed them it was unnecessary, as he had received letters dated the 12th, stating they had retired, a fact which is very much doubted.

The 'Cosmopolita' confesses to "cooking;" news for the French packet, saying nothing about the Indian invasions, but allowing the readers in England, France, and Switzerland to believe that no such evil exists, when it is the great event of the day. The 'Standard' makes it a point to report everything, good or ill, so that we cannot be afterwards accused of concealing facts within our knowledge. Mr. Perkins says he kept the news in his pocket until next day.

Mme. Mello and her company gave some first-rate operatic performances, selections from the favorite masters, which were much applauded: she was accompanied in triumph to her hotel. On Friday evening several peons were bathing their horses in the river, when one of them got into deep water, and the reins getting entangled with the horse's feet the animal plunged so violently that the rider fell: a dozen men were looking on at the distance of three paces but none of them moved to his rescue, and when a ship's boat was sent it was too late, although the horse escaped to the shore. Deceased was a native of Cordoba. Parties are becoming fashionable, and Mr. Gorsse lately gave a brilliant tertulia.

The 'Rosario' is we regret to say, a very disgraceful publication, making a parody of the Redeemer of Mankind with the Club del Pueblo. This ridicule of the Son of God is in keeping with Bilbao's new Gospel of America, but would not be tolerated in any Christian country. The diatribes against the "traitor Oroño" continue.

The 'Ferro-carril' mentions that a neighbor named Kelly descended into a well to save his child aged five years, at the imminent risk of his own life: after receiving sundry bruises he succeeded in rescuing the child, and it is proposed that the municipality should present him with a medal for "paternal affection." The Central railway works progress: the Onward unloaded half her cargo in one day. The Lewis is also unloaded: the engineers arrived at Frayle Muerto on the 6th, and were to remain a couple of days before returning to the Carcarañia.

THE SAN JUAN GOLD-FIELDS

The discovery of gold at Castaño in the province of San Juan has caused quite a furore among the foreigners of Rosario and Buenos Ayres, and in the latter city a company was about to be formed to set out for the diggings via Rosario, where they would provide themselves with all necessaries, and where a large number of Englishmen and Americans are waiting to join them in the expedition.

We have no longer any doubt as to the truth of the discoveries, since private letters from San Juan give us the most glowing accounts. But we are as yet uninformed about the extent of the discovery, and whether the precious metal is found near the surface, or in deep borings. It is very necessary to have this point determined. If the gold lie near the surface, it would attract immense numbers of diggers and speculators from all parts, and San Juan would become another California. But in the second case machinery and capital would be requisite, the work of extracting ore would be no less laborious than attended with risk, and we should caution our readers not to be tempted by the brilliant rumor, but rather wait patiently till we learn further details in this important matter.—El Cosmopolita (Rosario), Nov. 15th.

AN INDEPENDANT ORGAN.

The editor of 'El Rosario' states that he has received an offer from the Montevidean Government to subscribe for twenty-five copies, which he has indignantly refused, reminding Minister Carreras of his massacre of Quinteros, &c.

He adds that "in politics, as in morality, he is inflexible as a Quaker," and will have nothing to do with traitors.

Some people will think it strange that an editor should refuse subscriptions, but our colleague probably thought he was expected to sell his principles for $25 per month, and although Napoleon used to say "every man has his price" the Montevidean Minister certainly bid too low, as appears from the virtuous indignation of Mr. Editor Lavaysse.

AWFUL CALAMITY NEAR ROSARIO.

We learn that a bullock-cart, laden with gun-powder and arms, from Rosario for the upper provinces, suddenly exploded on the road, killing all the bullocks and drivers, and blowing the fragments up to a terrific height.

Our war-department is signally unlucky, and the Indians will regard this as a favorable circumstance. The list of mayorales and peons, dead or missing, who belonged to the eight troops of carts plundered, has been received in Buenos Ayres, and caused the most profound indignation.

SALTA.

We have the 'Actualidad' to the 22nd ult. The dispute is not yet settled about the murders and arsons committed by the Governor of Rivadavia colony, in the mission of the Franciscan fathers. The parishioners of Lerma have begged the removal of their priest on very scandalous charges.

PARANA.

Dates are to the 12th inst. Near the neighboring city of Sta. Fé, the fish-oil factory is working famously, the fish being most abundant, and giving an arrobe (25lbs.) of oil per 100. Dr. Rawson was expected to visit Paraná, after leaving Sta. Fé, but the purpose was unknown.

AWFUL INDIAN INVASION.

EIGHT TROOPS OF CARTS PLUNDERED.

The 'Ferro-carril' of the 15th inst. relates the unusual alarm of the city of Rosario, owing to the recent inroads of the savages.

"On Sunday, four several couriers arrived, with news of the Indians. Instead of three, we learn that eight troops of bullock-carts with produce have been sacked, and all the peons murdered by the savages. This has caused the utmost alarm and indignation, as the National Government seems perfectly indifferent, and the fool (Gelly-Obes) who has charge of the war-office sleeps on his post, undisturbed by the yell of the Indians, or the dying imprecations of his countrymen.

"For several days the savages have been roaming about from Frayle Muerte to Post Lobaton (Cordova), committing all kinds of barbarities. In one week they made five great sweeps of cattle, and Colonel Villar's story about recovering 1000 head is doubted. Guardia Esquina being unprotected, there was great fear that Santa Fé would be invaded, but the Rio Tercero was so swollen that they could not cross.

"The principal merchants of Rosario waited on the Chief of Police, begging him to despatch 200 men to the scene of outrage, and the Minister of Interior authorised him to call on Colonel Goytea to raise 30 men in his district.

"It is said that 2,000 Araucanian Indians have entered into alliance with those of the Pampas, to make a clean sweep of the provinces. Three troops of carts belonging to Messrs. Casas, Ramayo, and Miranda, have been sacked near Frayle Muerto, which town is now besieged by the savages who lately attacked and plundered the town of Achiras, leaving the townsfolk absolutely naked, but killed none.

For 40 years the Indians have never been known to penetrate so far, being now 25 leagues within the line of frontier picquets.

THE MAILS FOR PARAGUAY.

To-day the Paraguari steamer leaves for Asuncion.

We have to advise our readers there that the Brazilians are retreating from Cerro Largo to their own frontier, and it is currently believed the English packet has brought orders from Rio for raising the blockade in the Uruguay.

Among the numerous canards circulated by our colleagues was one about the forts of Humaytá saluting the Brazilian steamer, but they now confess it a foolish invention.

It is thought in this city that President Lopez has no intention to make war, although the price of yerba has risen.

We are much afflicted with Indian invasions, an evil happily unknown in Paraguay, but too common here, thanks to the Argentine policy of minding our neighbor's business better than our own.

IRELAND.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

Dublin, October 8th.

Events, far out of the ordinary course, have transpired here since I last addressed you; and the good people of Dublin have experienced something of the sensational shocks to which their English neighbours are more or less subject from day to day. The motto of a newspaper correspondent should be—"Tendré cuidado de todo;" but such has been the diversity of occurrences coming under my notice within the past fortnight, that I fear it is beyond my powers to fulfil the axiom. With Mdlle. Titiens, supported by a strong company of leading artistes, drawing immense crowds to the "Royal," nightly filling the boxes with the most animated and beautiful women in the world. With the invasion of the city by closely-cropped, pugnacious prize fighters, hailing from 'Vitechapel, London, and the Bowery, New York, I fear that any ordinary capacity for "taking notes" has been somewhat disordered. For the nonce I will leave the opera and "the ring" aside, and hasten to record two events which have deeply affected the people of this city. On the evening of Thursday, 28th September, the inhabitants of Upper Rathmines and its vicinity were startled by a rumour to the effect that a Mr. William O'Dell, formerly a barrister, had killed a bailiff named Richard Fox. The rumour proved too true, as will appear from the leading facts elicited at the inquest. The deceased accompanied other bailiffs to the house of Mr. O'Dell, to execute a distress warrant for £8, rent due to Mr. John M'Donnell, landlord. There was no opposition on the part of Mr. O'Dell to the removal of the goods distrained, and he spoke to the officers in a friendly manner. Just, however, as the men were bidding him good evening, Mr. O'Dell fired a small pistol, the contents of which penetrated Fox's temple, death supervening within fifteen minutes. The deceased's companions fled on the pistol being discharged; and immediately after O'Dell gave himself up to the police, acknowledging that he was the person who shot Fox. The coroner's jury found a verdict implicating O'Dell with the homicide, and he was fully committed for trial. Mr. O'Dell is about 56 years old, and there is nothing indicating murderous intent in his appearance. Straightened circumstances and intemperance caused the unfortunate man to commit this sad act; but it is generally believed that O'Dell is infected with monomania, and that a plea of insanity will be set up in defence.

Scarcely had the sensation caused by the above event partially subsided, than the neighbourhood of Sandymount was thrown into a state of intense excitement, by the report of a most melancholy and distressing circumstance, affecting the lives of two youths, aged respectively 17 and 9, sons of Dr. Clarke, Tritonville-avenue. On the 29th September, the lads left home with a fowling-piece, for the purpose of shooting on the strand. On Friday, 30th, a Mr. Ganley, who was out shooting, reported to the police at Irishtown that he had observed something resembling a nude body on the bank of a stream or gut, in the neighborhood of "the Shelly Banks." Search was made, and several articles of clothing, with the fowling-piece, belonging to the poor lads, were found and identified. The watch of the elder lad was found—it had stopped at twelve minutes past six, at which time the tide was half-in. The poor fellows, it is supposed, attempted to cross from the Pigeon House to Merrion, on finding the tide cutting off their return to the fort. On Sunday morning I visited the spot where the clothes, watch, &c., were found. The tide was "making," and all around was bright, calm, and beautiful. In the immediate vicinity, at a place known as "The Lake," the occupants of two boats were silently engaged in "dragging" for the dead. From a neighboring bank two persons watched, with straining and tearful eyes, the movements of the searchers. The yearning desire of father and mother to behold their offspring, even in death, was not gratified—the search was made in vain. The scene was touching, and reminded me of the necessity of ever being prepared to

"Walk calmly on the solemn, silent shore
Of that vast ocean all shall sail so soon."

In addition to the above, I have to record the death by drowning of Edward M'Allester, of 17 Charlemont-street, at Dollymount, on 26th Sept.; also, the demise, by injuries received in falling from his car, of Mr. J. W. Magrath. Within the past fortnight two corporate celebrities have passed away — Mr. Richard Smyth, one of the most prominent members of the old Tory Corporation; and Mr. John Martin, a leading man in the present "reformed" body. It will be in the recollection of old Dubliners, familiar with the era of Major Sirr and his "Pontius Pilate" guards, that exactly half a century ago Mr. Smyth filled the office of sheriff, and it fell to his lot to see execution carried out on a sweep, sentenced to be flogged at the cart-tail from Newgate to the Royal Exchange—and back again. Owing to the pressure of the crowd, the railings of the Exchange gave way, and fifteen people were killed. Although an earnest conservative, Mr. Smyth was the first Protestant Lord Mayor who had the good taste to invite the great O'Connell to his inaugural banquet—a piece of courtesy which excited the hostility of the "True Blue" corporators of that day. John Martin, T. C., whose death took place after a brief illness, was the able and energetic agent of the Tory party. An agreeable instance of the abandonment of party feeling has been elicited in the case of the widow and five infant children of the deceased. The widow and little ones were left without any provision—for Mr. Martin was unsparing in his generosity. On the 1st October a meeting was held to raise a fund for the support and advancement of the bereaved family. Sir John Gray, and other influential Liberals, took a leading part in this movement, and men of all sects and the most opposite political principles generously contributed to the fund, which now amounts to close upon £2,000. This unison of feeling and action in the great work of charity on the part of the citizens of Dublin, affords a marked contrast when compared with the rancorous bigotry prevailing in other cities and towns further north.

A distinguished veteran expired at the Royal Hospital, Kilmainham, on the 6th September—a "gallant grey," belonginging to Sir George Brown—a charger which he rode at the battle of the Alma. In that memorable engagement the horse was wounded in several places. Four bullets were extracted from various parts of his body, and a fifth was in so deep that it could not be grasped by the forceps and was left. After many accidents by flood and field the gallant grey was brought to Dublin, where he died at the age of 20 years, and he now lies buried in his master's garden. The O'Connell Monument Committee have advertised for designs for the statue to be erected in Sackville street, offering premiums, according to merit, of 40, 60, and 100 pounds; designs to be sent in on or before the 1st January. In the matter of design, foreigners are not excluded from competing; but the execution of the monument will only be confided to Irish hands. Up to the present the realization of this great national tribute to the memory of the illustrious Liberator promises to be successfully accomplished, Irishmen residing in every quarter of the globe continuing their contributions with more than wonted liberality. Of late I hear little of the proposed memorial to Prince Albert, for which a considerable sum of money was collected in Ireland. A proposition was made and carried in the municipal council some time ago that the monument to the Prince Consort should be erected in College-green. By a clever move this act of the council was set aside; and I am now informed that the utmost exertions will be made at the ensuing elections to exclude every person from the municipal body who voted for or favoured the erection of the Albert memorial in College-green. I will not stop to question the claims of the Queen's husband to a monument in the most eligible and conspicuous portion of the metropolis of Ireland. But I will take leave to say that Dublin already possesses an undue number of the most absurd, ill-conceived and ridiculous 'memorials' and 'monuments' that could possibly be collected within a city having any pretensions to good taste, not to speak of even a commonplace idea of the rules of art. Not to mention the incongruous pile known as Nelson's pillar, which throws its dark shadow over and blocks up the centre of the finest streets in Europe—nor of the theatrical figure bestriding a dray-horse, known as "Billy of the Boyne," three modern 'memorials' now present themselves to the eye which invariably excite the risible faculties of the visitor to the city. The first is the uncouth, sombre, and downright ugly representation of Tom Moore—for some time past serving as a shield to protect the votaries of the goddess Cloacina from vulgar eyes. The second is something resembling a monster lettuce running to seed, or a gigantic hollyhock, and is supposed to be a memorial to the late Sir Philip Crampton. The third and latest is a figure representing Wm. Dargan, erected in Leinster-lawn. I will only say that this is a gross caricature of its living representative, and must have been modelled from the figure-head of an English ship, in which the idea of a 'merchant' is presented in the form of a fat, squally individual in an ample surtout, large-pattern vest, and ample continuations. Now, without following up the remaining absurdities scattered about Dublin in the "monument" and "memorial" line, I would direct your attention to a noble method of perpetuating the memory of good and great men. Of late years Catholics and Protestants in Dublin have erected, re-modelled, and restored many beautiful buildings for public worship. Without infringing on the high and holy purposes of those temples, memorials to the good and great might find a place within their precincts. In the noble work undertaken by Mr. Guinness—the restoration of St. Patrick's Cathedral—"memorials," in the shape of richly-stained windows, chaste and beautifully executed monuments, add to the rich variety of objects all tending to lead the mind heavenward. The church has ever been the foster-mother of art, as well as the guardian of the memory and good name of good and great men. Hence I would humbly advocate the combination of the highest and noblest conceptions of the human mind with the outward symbols of religion, and by this means art would attain a spiritualism, an influence, and an inspiration which cannot be looked for where materialism and vulgarity stop the way. In my next I will give details relative to St. Patrick's, likely to prove of interest to your Irish readers generally.

THE INTERNATIONAL PRIZE FIGHT.

During the past week Dublin has been invaded by a hoard of adventurers from the back slums of New York and London—including prize-fighters, blacklegs, and pick-pockets—all directly or indirectly interested in the great international milling match set down to come off between Mace and Coburn, at some place within one hundred miles of Dublin, on or about the 4th of October. Excitement, in those days of "sensationalism" (as we heard a bag man express it) is contagious, hence a a widely-extended amount of interest was felt in this city as to the issue of the combat between the rival champions of England and America. The police authorities were on the alert to stop the fight; but they were saved the trouble of adopting any very stringent measures, by a pitch in the preliminary arrangements of the parties most interested in the affair. It appears that the American party "won the toss" for choice of both referee and the locality in which the interesting little affair should come off. On the referee being named by Coburn, and the place selected being made known, the backers of Mace objected to both arrangements, and left Dublin for England. Probably you will procure details of this affair from the newspapers accompanying this letter, therefore I will not venture an observation or an opinion on the causes affecting the failure of such an important international event? With this I conclude my odd gathering of Irish news (?), and beg to assure each and everyone of my countrymen who read the 'Standard,' pay for it punctually, and never lend it to those able to pay for the luxury of a newspaper—"Su muy humilde servidor."

DIRECT STEAM COMMUNICATION.

A leading foreigner who like ourself takes an interest in pushing the country ahead, has sent us the following letter from the Captain of the 'Payta.' This letter conveys a very significant fact, sustained and supported by two previous steamers belonging to the Pacific Steam Navigation Co., which made their voyages in about the same time. It is especially interesting to all parties connected in the River Plate in two very essential points.

1st, That it is perfectly easy to construct ships that will perform the voyage between England and the Rio de la Plata in 20 days instead of 35 or 36 days, with ample accommodation for passengers and cargo.

2nd, That it is also perfectly easy to construct large ships with a light draft of water; and suited to the navigation to La Plata and its trade.

3rd, Again, it is perfectly easy to construct ships and engines upon a basis of economy as regards the consumption of coal, as will render a most satisfactory return for the capital employed.

Why is it then that we are entering on a voyage of 35 days, suffering inconveniences and unnecessary expenditures, when, by the investment of a small and well employed capital we can make ourselves comfortable and economize so much time?

Surely, we have a large intercourse with Europe already, but with such facilities as we propose, would it not be immensely enhanced?

Montevideo, Nov. 8th, 1864.

Dear Sir,

I left Liverpool at 2 p.m. of the 15th of October: arrived at Madeira at 9:15, p.m., of the 20th, having experienced a westerly wind for nearly the whole of the passage, and for a few hours had to lay to.

Left Madeira at 11 a.m. of the 21st, and arrived at St. Vincent at 3:45 a.m. of the 25th., received 290 tons of fuel, and left at 7:40 p.m., and arrived here at 3:40 p.m. of yesterday. Average speed from St. Vincent to this port, 12 knots per hour. The consumption of fuel altogether is about 720 tons. The engines are in splendid working order, and I am sorry that I have not had the pleasure of seeing you on board, as she is fitted up quite different to any of the ships of the Pacific. Athough she is 1,800 tons, with 600 tons of dead weight, her draught of water is only 13 feet; her speed on trial averages 13½ knots. I shall leave at 9 p.m., and hope to reach Valparaiso on the 20th.

I remain,

Yours very truly,

H. T. WOOLCOTT.

CAMP NEWS.

Ranchos, Nov. 15th.

Although the camp is very dry, the pasture is abundant and the sheep fat. The wool looks very well, and we find that the average weight of fleece of our pure negrette ewes has increased 25 p% since the year 1862. This increase is principally owing to the better condition the sheep are in, but also partly to their having been crossed by rams of heavy fleece imported for the purpose. I don't include in this calculation the original sheep received three years ago, nor their descendants which form a separate flock which has given an average of 8 lbs., without including the rams; one of the ewes gave 12 lbs. The rams have given respectively 14½, 14½, 14, 14, 15½, 12¾, 14½, 14, 13½, 12½, 14: total 153 from 11 rams, and the quality is very good. You will, of course, be told of much heavier weights than these, but I receive such accounts with great distrust, for in the very best flocks in Germany they never pretend to more than from 14 to 16 lbs. from their best rams.

I found the camp on my journey out much drier than I expected; in fact, with the exception of the arroyos about La Matanza and Cañuelas, we found not a drop of water all the way out.

It is surprising, considering the dry weather, how very good the camp is, and the consequence is that almost all our negrette ewes have taken the ram, whilst at the same time last year very few had done so.

Yours,

A SUBSCRIBER.

THE CAMPS A-FIRE.

To the Editors of the 'Standard.'

Gentlemen,

In those palmy days of improvement and go-a-headism, when we are made such fine promises about progression, it is to be wondered at how the authorities fail to carry out the hundred and one suggestions which are constantly drummed in their ears. Some would ascribe such negligence to a total want of the knowledge of such abuses on the part of those in command: others say this horrid 'compadreship,' plays the deuce with the good intentions of a wise governor, whilst the most aggrieved party affirms that our camp authorities renounce all tendency to improvement, as that would be 'muy Ingles.' However, be the cause what it may, it is lamentable how all the ideas tending to progression die a natural death. The man who feeds 850 head of cattle, 2,000 sheep, 78 pigs, 17 dogs, with hens, ducks, geese, and turkeys, &c., on 225 'varas,' by a league and a-half, must not be interfered with, although he annoys his neighbours and is a patent nuisance. The 'gent' who walks out with his lasso by moonlight, and skins his neighbour's bullock, must not be touched, although he is thus a robber. No, no; 'pobrecito como es guacho es un derecho que tiene!' If he puts a knife through a friend's (?) heart, who dares to speak to him? Of course not; it is only a way he has; when he gets tired he will drop it. If two or three call up in the dusk of the evening, and insist on stopping the night with some sole 'puestero,' they are not to be questioned; and if they take a morbid fancy to the 'soltero's' windpipe, why it is only the custom of the country, and must not be wondered at: now and then the culprit is taken up and confined for a few months, and either escapes, or is let go. This is considered sufficient punishment. We have been promised those celebrated "camp police" for such a time, that it looks as if they were only in the clouds. However, when they do go out on duty, and if disposed to mind their business, they will find plenty to do.

There is a subject which now occupies the attention of the sheepfarmers, and which if not attended to in the strictest manner, is likely to lead to the most disastrous results—I allude to the immense 'cardales' which cover the camp on all sides—and hence the great danger both families and sheep are in from fire. This season we have not the same chances of escape there existed formerly, for even the 'cañadas' are covered with 'cardos.' Heaven knows we have jueces, alcaldes, and tenientes enough, if they had only sufficient brains to institute some means of preventing those annual fires. It is strange that some order does not issue from the 'juzgado,' relative to this very important affair. In the diligences, your young town swells light their cigars, and throw them in the camp, purposely to hear afterwards that one-half the partido has been destroyed. Your bullock drivers (although more cautious) often carelessly leave the embers of a fire, which being stirred up by a breeze, send the country in a blaze; and even the stokers on the railway stir up the fires and throw on coal, without having the funnel properly covered. Some of your fancy readers will 'pooh, pooh,' such ideas, and say, 'oh! with a little care there is no danger.' But mark my words, it will be next to impossible to extinguish any fire this season; and I trust any of your correspondents or subscribers who may read this, will take all possible care, in such a very important matter: above all, I would call on Government to issue an order to all mayorales, cartmen, and carriers, that on no account are they to smoke between the posadas: three-fourths of the fires may be attributed to the diligences, and many fires are created through the malicious sport of those who certainly can form no idea as to the quantity of life and property they expose to danger. It is absolutely necessary to institute stringent measures at once, otherwise fatal news may be expected daily.

Yours,

V.

There was a decided downward feeling on the Bolsa to-day, respecting specie. Mr. Lanuz has fairly frightened the brokers by his offer to go to England and sell the proposed new bank stock at 97. Toward the closing hour of the Bolsa specie was still weaker, as the impression was pretty general that the bank would send Mr. Lanuz off in the packet. We opine, however, that the words of our London friend will prove correct. "The River Plate has received all the English capital it is likely to receive for some time, and the people in Buenos Ayres ought to make good use of their money."

There were no sales for long dates to-day, and for the end of the month specie was selling higher than for cash, which looks bad. The business of the day was very trifling, and in Exchange there was nothing done on England. Some French bills were passed at 5.20. We forgot to notice yesterday an Exchange operation done in Montevideo for £15,000, at a rate equivalent to 49 here.

We notice a little more animation in the wool market to-day, and the following sales have been given to us on the best authority:—

8	cartloads	80
2	do	85
2	do	92
2	do	90
2	do	84
7	do	97
5	do	100

There were no charters, and when we left the Bolsa, the all-absorbing topic was the Indians.

National Bonds were rather weak to-day, and sellers were to be had at 39.

We extract the following from Mr. Van Blarcom's last circular:—

"Unwashed common Entre Rios, Rosario, San Nicolas, and Buenos Ayres wools.—The sales reported are 100,000 lbs. Corrientes, at 52 to 55 cents per lb., 60,000 lbs. Rosario, 25 to 30 cents per lb. and 80 bales Entre Rios on private terms. There is so much difference in the condition of these wools that no quotation gives the market price for all lots. There is no demand of consequence for any of the above descriptions, and the stock is so limited that any urgent demand would bring satisfactory prices. We do not anticipate a rise in prices in any of the wools, but gold appears to be on the decline, and that will enable the importers to realize more in gold for their wools although sold at a less price in currency.

SAVINGS BANK.

BANK MAUA AND CO.

No. 103 Calle de Cangallo,

BUENOS AYRES.

The immense advantages of Accounts Current are now so generally felt and appreciated in the two great emporiums of the River Plate, Montevideo and Buenos Ayres, that there are very few Merchants who fail to keep one at the bank in which they place the most confidence.

The Bank of Mauá and Co. in Montevideo has already provided for the working classes in that city a safe and profitable depositary for their savings.

The sums deposited in that most important institution are daily increasing, and already reach a very large amount.

These advantages have not hitherto been enjoyed in this city by an immense number of clerks, artisans, working men, and servants of all classes and conditions, who are equally interested in putting their savings out at interest, thus providing themselves with a reserve fund in case of need, sickness, or old age, instead of spending them in the immoral gambling, in lotteries, and other frivolities.

The Bank of Mauá and Co. of this city, following the noble example of their firm in Montevideo, now offer the same facilities in this city, and will open a Savings Bank at No. 103 Calle Cangallo, from Nine a.m. till Three p.m. on Week Days, and on Sundays and Holidays from Ten a.m. to Twelve m., for the reception of the savings of the classes already mentioned.

The Bank will deliver to each depositor a pass book, in which will be entered the amount deposited and withdrawn.

The depositor is permitted at any time to withdraw the whole or part of the sum deposited; in the former case the interest will be calculated up to date.

The Bank of Mauá and Co. is sufficiently known to the Public by the benefit derived from the course of its operations, which are regulated on the strictest and soundest principles, and always directed to promote the general welfare.

The Bank of Mauá and Co. are also persuaded that this new branch of their business will render immense service to the working classes of Buenos Ayres and its neighbourhood.

Buenos Ayres, September 19, 1863.

P.p. Mauá and Co.

BENSON'S WATCHES AND CLOCKS.

Watch and Clock Maker, by Special Appointment, to His Royal Highness The Prince of Wales.

Opinions of the London Press upon Benson's Great Clock and Watches in the Exhibition, 1862.

"As a sample of English clock work on a large scale, the works of this are probably the finest finished that have ever been seen in this country. No Chronometer could be fitted with more perfectness or carefully adjusted mechanism."—Times, June 11 1862.

"A triumph of ingenuity."—Telegraph March 11 1862.

"A more splendid and exquisite ly finished piece of mechanism we have never seen." Standard, June 17 1862.

"Some of them are of great beauty and if the English watch-trade only follow up with the same spirit and success this first attempt to compete with foreigners in decorative watches, there seems to be no reason why we should not get the trade entirely into our own hands."—Times, June 23, 1862.

"Ranged around the base of the clock were the Watches which Mr. Benson exhibited, and which have been universally admired for the beauty and elegance of the designs engraved upon them. The movements are of the finest quality which the art of horology is at present capable of producing. The clock and watches were objects of great attraction, and well repaid the trouble of an inspection."—Illustrated London News, November 8, 1862.
